

Depoliticization and the political today

Event location: The Mile End campus, Queen Mary, University of London

This event seeks to consider the value of the theme of depoliticization for an engagement with the wider political logics and strategies of neoliberalism, drawing connections between neoliberal currents of thought and particular organizational and institutional sites and locales.

The event will be free to all participants by registration.

Confirmed speakers and preliminary program

09:30-10:00	Coffee and tea
10:00-10:15	Welcome
10:15-10:45	Jasper Finkeldey: The post-politics of green capitalism: An overview
10:45-11:15	Justin Murphy: The information revolution and the pacification of the world
11.45-12:15	Jeremy Pilcher: The (in)competence of the technocratic regulation of corporate directors
12:15-12:45	Gregory Allen: Postcolonial Poland: The wretched of the earth or Fukuyama's letzte Mensch?
12:45-14:00	Lunch

- 14:00-14:45 Peter Bloom: Authoritarian capitalism in the age of globalization
- 15:00-15:45 Ole Bjerg: Parallax of growth: The philosophy of ecology and economy
- 16:00-16:45 Joe Deville: Lived economies of default: Consumer credit, debt collection, and the capture of affect
- 17:00-18:00 Workshop organized by Bent Meier Sørensen

This ephemera workshop is hosted by the School of Business and Management, Queen Mary, University of London, UK. To participate please let Rowland Curtis (r.curtis@qmul.ac.uk) and Christian Garmann Johnsen (cgj.mpp@cbs.dk) know that you would like to join. The venue is located at the Mile End campus, Queen Mary, University of London, and the room details will be confirmed on registration.

For more information about the theme of the event, please look at the ephemera webpage: <http://www.ephemerajournal.org/events/depoliticization-and-political-today>

It is planned that a special themed issue for ephemera will follow from the event.